G. Risks of Investing in the Fund

Investment in the Fund involves multiple risks and is suitable only for investors who fully understand and are capable of bearing the risks of such an investment. Potential investors should carefully evaluate the considerations set out below, among others, in making their decision. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to the Fund Manager, or that it currently deems immaterial, may also have an adverse impact on the Fund's prospects and business. There can be no assurance that the Fund will be able to achieve its investment objective or that investors will receive a return of their capital.

An investment in the Fund does not entail any guarantee that such investment shall be profitable or that an investor shall not incur any loss. As such, each prospective investor shall take into account each of the aforementioned risk factors prior to purchasing units in the Fund. Each investor bears full responsibility for any financial loss resulting from an investment in the Fund unless such loss is due to the fraud, gross negligence or misconduct of the Fund Manager as per the Real Estate Investment Funds Regulations.

1) Summary of the Main Risks Involved in the Fund Investment

No Assurance of Investment Returns: There is no assurance that the Fund will be able to generate returns for its investors or that the returns will be commensurate with the risks of investing in the Fund and the nature of the transactions described herein. It is possible that the Units may fall in value or that investors might lose some or all of the capital they have invested. There can be no assurance that projected or targeted returns for the Fund will be achieved. The figures and statistics set out in these Terms and Conditions are for illustrative purposes only and do not represent profit forecasts. Actual returns cannot be predicted and may differ from the illustrative statistics set out in these Terms and Conditions.

Limited Operating History Risk: The Fund has no operating history based on which potential investors may evaluate its performance or any track record of success. Although the Fund Manager has experience managing real estate funds, the Fund Manager has limited experience in managing real estate investment traded funds as its legislations has been only recently drafted in the Kingdom, and the nature of and the risks associated with the Fund's future investments may differ substantially from those investments and strategies undertaken historically by the Fund Manager. Past results of the Fund Manager are not necessarily indicative of future performance. Therefore, the novelty of the product shall be deemed a risk as it is difficult to predict the extent of the change in the value of Units or the proceeds that are supposed to be distributed.

Regulatory Risks: The Fund may cease to qualify as a real estate investment traded fund under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions, which would have adverse consequences for the trading liquidity of their Units which may adversely affect the value of investment. Requirements for maintaining the Fund as a real estate investment traded fund have not been tested. In addition, changes may take place latter (including a modification in the interpretation) of maintaining the Fund as a real estate investment traded fund. Potential investors should note that there is no guarantee that the Fund will, following its election to become a real estate investment traded fund, become a real estate investment traded fund or it shall maintain such status (by reason of failure to satisfy regulatory requirements or otherwise).. If the Fund fails to meet any of the regulatory requirements to maintain its status, the CMA may suspend the trading of Units or cancel the Fund's listing. The inability to maintain its listing on Tadawul could adversely impact the marketability and liquidity of the Units and their value.

Market Liquidity Risk: The Fund intends to apply for admission of the Units to trading on Saudi Stock Exchange (Tadawul). The Fund intends to apply for admission of the Units to trading on Tadawul. Admission should not be taken as implying that there will be a liquid market for the Units or that it will develop or, if it does develop, that it will be maintained indefinitely following admission. If a liquid trading market is not developed or maintained, the liquidity and trading price of the Units could be adversely affected. In addition, if such a market does not develop, relatively small transactions or intended transactions in the Units may have a significant negative impact on the market price of the Units whilst transactions or intended transactions related to a significant number of Units may be difficult to execute at a stable price. Limited numbers of Units and/or holders of Units may mean that there is limited liquidity in such Units which may adversely affect: (i) an investor's ability to realize some or all of its investment; and/or (ii) the price at which such investor can effect such realization; and/or (iii) the price at which such Units trade in the secondary market. In addition, a substantial proportion of the Units may be issued to a limited number of investors, which could adversely affect the development of an active and liquid market for the Units. Additionally, although the Units will be traded, the market liquidity of Units in real estate investment traded funds may be less than that of shares issued by listed companies.

Risks of price changes: There are several factors that may adversely affect the market price of Units including general movement in local and international capital markets and real estate markets, prevailing and anticipated economic conditions and profit rates, financing costs, investor sentiment and general economic conditions. The market for the Units may fluctuate and a lack of liquidity can have an adverse effect on the market value for the Units. Accordingly, the purchase of such Units is only suitable for investors who can bear the risks associated with such investments.

Risk of Changes in Interest Rates and General Economic Conditions: Changes in economic conditions, including interest rates, inflation rates, employment conditions, competition, technological developments, political and diplomatic events and trends, and tax laws can affect substantially and adversely the business and prospects of the Fund. In particular, interest rates' increases may cause investors to demand higher returns to compensate for increases in the cost of money and the opportunity cost. The comparative attractiveness of the Units as an investment may be impacted as a result and demand decreases which may negatively affect the market price of Units. Whereas the Fund may seek financing, then any increase in interest rates in debt markets may impact the Fund's financing terms. Changes in interest rates may impact valuations in the real estate sector generally.

Trading at a Price Lower than Initial Offering Price Risks: The Units may trade at a price lower than the Initial Offering Price upon subscription, and Unitholders may not retrieve the full value of their investment. The Units may trade at a discount to the offered price for a variety of reasons, including adverse market conditions, a deterioration in investors' perceptions of the merits of the Fund's investment strategy and investment policy, an excess of supply over demand in the Units.

Distributions Fluctuation Risks: Although the Fund is required under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions to distribute at least ninety percent (90%) of its net income to the Unitholders, there are no guarantees regarding the amounts of the future distributions. The Fund may be unable to make any distribution due to unforeseeable events resulting in an increase in costs (including capital expenditures in the case of large-scale urgent renovation works) or a decrease in revenues (such as in the case of uncollected rental income). The Fund's inability to make annual distributions to Unitholders may expose the Fund to certain liabilities that would further affect its financial performance. The Fund may also be prevented from making distributions by its lenders, pursuant to relevant financing documentation, who may in certain circumstances (such as following the occurrence of a default under any financing documentation) have the right to take control of the cash flows of the Fund and apply those cash flows to pay down principal amounts outstanding under the financing documentation. An interruption or decrease in the amount of distributions to the Unitholders, may cause the value and trading price of the Units on Tadawul to fall.

Risk of Increase in Management Fees as Percentage of Fund Income: The Fund pays 1% of its Net Asset Value as Management Fees while the Fund's rental income is fixed for long periods of time. The Net Asset Value is expected to change from time to time, and may therefore result in a decrease or increase in Management Fees paid to the Fund Manager. In the event of an increase, Management Fees will increase as a percentage of annual fixed income, which may adversely affect the periodic returns of the Fund's Units.

Substantial Sale of Unit Risks: Subsequent sales by the Unitholders of a substantial number of Units may significantly reduce the Unit's market price. Any sales of substantial amounts of Units in the public market, or the perception that such sales might occur, could materially and adversely affect the value and trading price of the Units.

Reflection of Underlying Value Risks: The market price of the Units may not reflect the value of the underlying investments of the Fund. Stock exchanges experience extreme price and volume volatility from time to time, and this, in addition to general economic, political and other conditions, may materially adversely affect the market price for the Units. As the Fund is publicly traded, the price at which the Units may be quoted will be influenced by a large number of factors many of which are outside the Fund's control, some specific to the Fund and its operations and some which affect investment property as a whole, or equity markets generally.

Frequency of NAV Calculations: The value of the Fund's assets shall be determined at least once every six months, however, the value of the underlying investments of the Fund may change in the period between valuations. Accordingly, the market price of the Units may be based on historical information and may not reflect the current value of the underlying Investments of the Fund. Further, all fees and expenses are not adjusted until the next valuation. As such, the Unitholder shall not be aware of the Fund's updated asset value during such period, and may dispose of the Fund's Units in a way that may negatively affect its proceeds and investment values.

Limitations on Raising Funds for Additional Acquisitions: Distribution requirements and leverage restrictions under the Real Estate Investment Traded Funds Instructions, and regulatory restrictions on the raising of new equity, may limit the Fund's ability and flexibility to make additional acquisitions. The Fund intends to distribute to Unitholders at least 90% of its net profits, which reduces the Fund's available cash. Furthermore, in order to maintain its status as a real estate investment traded fund, the Fund's leverage must not exceed 50% of the total asset value of the Fund. As a result, the Fund has limited ability to make improvements to its property or pursue growth through acquisition of additional properties. If the Fund intends to increase its Capital, it may need to conduct a rights issue in accordance with the CMA's regulations and the Saudi Arabian Companies Regulations. The capital increase process for a real estate investment traded fund is untested to date and may prove to be a time-consuming process which may negatively affect the market price of Units.

Adherence to Shariah Restrictions: The Fund's investments must be made in accordance with Shariah principles determined in accordance with the Shariah Guidelines. These principles apply both to the structure of the Investments and, to a certain extent, to the activities of the Fund and the diversification of its Investments. In order to comply with such principles, the Fund may be forced to divest an Investment, or part of an Investment, if the Investment or the investment structure relating to that Investment violates relevant Shariah principles. Additionally, in complying with Shariah principles, the Fund may lose investment opportunities if a proposed investment is ultimately determined by Shariah Board not to adhere to Shariah principles and thus cannot be considered by the Fund. These factors may, under certain circumstances, have an adverse effect on the financial performance of the Fund or its Investments, as compared to results that might be obtained in the absence of the Fund's Shariah investment principles.

Risk in Incorrect Forecasts and Changes in Market Conditions: The future performance of the Fund would largely depend on changes in the supply and demand conditions of the real estate and the relevant real estate sub-sector, which may be affected by regional and local economic and political conditions, increased competition thereby a decline in the value of real estate, potential limited availability of mortgage funding or an increase in mortgage rates, and fluctuations of supply and demand. Incorrect forecasts used by the Fund Manager to make investment decisions may have an adverse impact on the Fund's performance.

Non-Participation in Management: Except as mentioned in these Terms and Conditions, investors will have no right or power to participate in the management of the Fund or to influence any of the Fund's investment decisions. All management responsibilities will be entrusted to the Fund Manager.

Dependence on Key Personnel: The Fund's success will principally depend on the success of its management team. The loss of the services of any of the members of the Fund management team, in general (whether such loss is through resignation or otherwise), or the inability to attract and retain additional personnel, could materially affect the Fund's business and prospects. Lack of a successful management team for the Fund may negatively affect the ability to develop the Fund's properties and assets and the ability to negotiate for the best interest of the Fund which may affect the Fund's returns and the value of its Units.

Potential Conflicts of Interest: The Fund may experience difference conditions of conflict of interests since the Fund Manager and its related companies, and their respective managers, and managers and affiliates, may be participating in real estate activities or other commercial activities, whether directly or indirectly. In such respect, the Fund Manager may from time to time deal with persons, companies, institutions, or firms, related to the Fund Manager's related companies to facilitate investment opportunities. Entities to which the Fund Board of Directors has entrusted certain responsibilities (including the Fund Manager) are not required to dedicate all their resources to the Fund. In case any of these entities dedicated their responsibilities or resources for other third parties, such might restrict their ability to dedicate their responsibilities and resources for the Fund. Any such conflict of interests may reduce the Fund's ability to achieve its objectives in terms of increasing revenues and ability to accomplish a better market value to units considering that the Fund is entitled to invest in publicly or privately offered funds managed by the Fund Manager under these Terms and Conditions.

Risk Factors Related to the Fund's Assets:

Acquisition of Initial Assets Risks: The Fund expects to complete acquisition of the Initial Assets within 60 days from the Closing Date. Although Purchase Agreements are binding, if either party to the Purchase Agreements fails to perform under the Purchase Agreements, the acquisition of initial assets or part thereof may not occur within 60 days from the Closing Date or at all. In such case, the Fund would need to identify and complete acquisitions of other assets before it could start producing dividends to Unitholders. While the Fund Manager expects the Fund would still provide the target returns to investors over the long term, expected regular proceeds for investors may be reduced due to lack of income generating assets.

Availability of Appropriate Investments: Some of the investments of the Fund have been selected by the Fund Manager as of the date hereof. Investors in the Fund will not have an opportunity to evaluate for themselves the relevant economic, financial and other information regarding future investments. There can be no assurance that the Fund Manager will be able to identify investments following the acquisition of the Initial Assets that meet the Fund's investment objectives, particularly in the current market environment. Identifying and structuring investments suitable for the Fund is highly complicated and involves a high degree of uncertainty. The Fund Manager's inability to identify suitable investments may adversely affect the ability of the Fund to produce the desired growth in the market value of Units.

Initial Assets Counterparty Default: The Initial Assets will have only one lessee. The Fund will have material exposure to the credit risk of the lessee. If the lessee defaults on one or both of the leases for the properties that comprise the Initial Assets, the Fund Manager may be unable to re-let the properties immediately or may be unable to achieve satisfactory lease returns, which would reduce the rental income from the properties. Further, the Fund may have to significantly renovate the properties to attract future tenants on the best possible terms which may temporarily affect the proceeds distributed to the Unitholders.

Default and Credit Risks of Other Counterparties: The Fund will be exposed to the credit risk of parties with whom it conducts business and may also bear risk of settlement default. The Fund may, in certain circumstances, be fully subject to the default of a counterparty, including the landowners, lending banks, property managers and/or contractors. Default by a counterparty by failing to pay any contractual dues to the Fund could reduce the income of the Fund and ultimately affect the returns to Unitholders.

Unspecified Use of Returns: Except as set out in these Terms and Conditions, and except for the Initial Assets, the Investments of the Fund which are intended to be made after the Listing Date have not been selected by the Fund Manager. Investors in the Fund will not have an opportunity to evaluate the relevant economic, financial and other information regarding Investments.

Fluctuations in the Value of Real Estate and other General Real Estate Risks: The Investments will be subject to the risks inherent in the ownership, leasing, operation, development and/or re-development of real estate. These risks include but are not limited to, those associated with general and local economic climate, local real estate conditions, changes in supply of or demand for competing properties in an area, functional obsolescence and desirability of the real estate, energy and supply shortages, various uninsured or uninsurable risks, natural disasters, government regulations (such as rent control), changes in real property taxes, changes in return rates and the availability of mortgage funding which may render the sale or refinancing of properties difficult or impracticable, environmental liabilities, contingent liabilities on disposition of assets and war and other factors which are beyond the control of the Fund Manager.

Real estate historically has experienced significant fluctuations and cycles in value. There is a risk that the Fund may buy Investments at the peak of the market and any subsequent deterioration in the market could result in a decline in the market value of the Fund's Investments. There is no assurance that there will be a ready market for the resale of the Investments because the Investments will generally not be liquid.

In addition, adverse changes in the operation of any property, or the financial condition of any tenant, could have an adverse effect on the rent payments ultimately received by the Fund and, accordingly, on the Fund's ability to make distributions to investors. A lessee may experience, from time to time, a downturn in its business which may weaken its financial condition and result in its failure to make rental payments when due. At any time, a lessee may seek the protection of applicable bankruptcy or insolvency laws, which could result in the rejection and termination of such lessee's lease or other adverse consequences and thereby cause a reduction in the distributable cash flow of the Fund. No assurance can be given that lessees will not file for bankruptcy protection in the future or, if they do, that their leases will continue in effect.

Concentration by Real Estate Sector: The Fund may invest in assets which are concentrated in one particular sector such as residential, commercial, office and/or warehousing real estate sectors. If the Fund concentrates its investments in one or more sectors this may expose the Fund to the risk of economic downturns to a greater extent than if the Fund's assets also included assets across one or more other sectors. As a result, such downturns could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial condition, results of operations, cash flow, and ability to make distributions to the investors.

Concentration by Geographical Location: The Fund intends to primarily invest in assets which are concentrated in the Holy Cities of Makkah and Medina. Generally, if a fund concentrates its investments in limited geographical locations of the Holy Cities of Makkah and Medina by a at least 60% of its total asset value, it will be heavily exposed to the risk of economic downturns to a greater extent than if the Fund's assets was diversified across more other geographical locations. As a result, such downturns in the Holy Cities of Makkah or Medina could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial condition, results of operations, cash flow, and ability to make distributions to the investors.

Real Estate Expropriation Risks: Government authorities can expropriate real properties if necessary for the public benefit (for example, the construction of highways and public facilities). In practice, the purchase price is usually equal to market value. In case of expropriation, property is acquired after a period of notification, not specified by current law as it is adopted pursuant to a specific law. Although compensation may be paid, there is a risk that the level of compensation would not be sufficient in comparison to the investments made and the loss of profit/increase in the investment. If the above risk materializes, yield distributions to the Unitholders may diminish, the value and trading price of the Units on Tadawul may fall and the Unitholders may lose all or part of the capital invested by them.

Commercial Real Estate Market Risks: The Fund may acquire only commercial real estate assets, and if the Fund was dependent on the income streams derived from them, the Fund may become exposed to any downturn in such markets. The commercial real estate market is cyclical in nature and is affected by the condition of the economy as a whole. Deteriorating economic conditions adversely affect the value and liquidity of commercial real estate assets. In addition, negative economic conditions have also had, and may continue to have, a material adverse effect on the level, and effective collection, of rental revenues and the ability of tenants to make payments which may ultimately flow to the Fund. Declines in the performance of the commercial real estate markets could have a negative impact on rental levels and revenues and vacancy rates, and could as a result have a material adverse effect on the Fund's business and financial condition.

Residential Real Estate Market Risks: The Fund may invest in the residential real estate sector. The performance of investments in the residential real estate sector depends heavily on changes in demand and supply levels, which would be greatly affected by economic, political, security, regional and local factors, including increase in competition posed by other residential properties. The Fund's ability to earn net rental income as well as up-keeping the real estate value of the residential properties highly depends on the ability of the Fund's residential properties to effectively compete with similar properties. If similar residential real estate properties were able to attract lessees better than the Fund, then the net rental income from the Fund may diminish as a result of low demand by lessees. The decrease in the net rental income may reduce the yield distributions to the Unitholders and may cause the value and price of the Units to fall.

Risks of Dependence on Rental Income: The Fund may acquire Investments based on values derived from the income to be received from the tenants of the Investments. There can be no assurance that vacant spaces will be leased, expiring leases will be renewed or there will be rent increases over time. If a tenant experiences a downturn in its business or other type of financial distress, then it may be unable to make timely rental payments or renew its lease. Certain tenants may occupy significant portions of the relevant Investments and, accordingly, for so long as the Fund's Investments are concentrated in those assets its financial condition, results of operations, cash flow, and its ability to make distributions to the investors could be materially affected by any adverse conditions impacting those key tenants.

Underlying Asset Liquidity Risks: As an asset class, real estate assets are relatively illiquid and, as such, it may be difficult or impossible for the Fund to realize a property for a particular price at any particular time. The Fund's assets consist of real estate assets. It may be difficult for the Fund to sell its real estate assets (particularly at times of market downturn and specifically those assets that are categorized as larger real estate assets), and the price achieved on any such realization may be at a significant discount, especially if the Fund is forced to dispose of any of its assets in a short period of time. This may reduce the value of the Units and adversely impact the performance of the Fund.

Development Risks: The development of real estate projects in Saudi Arabia presents several specific risks. The risks in building and successfully marketing a new development include, but are not limited to: (i) delays in timely completion of works; (ii) cost overruns; (iii) inability to generate lease agreements to forecast levels; and (iv) force majeure resulting from factors beyond the Fund's control and which are specific to the construction industry (including adverse weather and environmental conditions and lack of building material in the market) which would hinder the completion of the development projects. New project commencement also carries other risks such as the receipt of zoning, occupancy and other required governmental approvals and permits and development costs in connection with projects that are not pursued to completion. The successful completion of such projects will have a direct and significant impact on the value of the Units and any failure to complete a project could reduce dividends and the net asset value of the Fund.

Leverage Risks: The assets of the Fund may be leveraged, which may adversely affect the income earned by the Fund or may result in a loss of principal and accordingly, the market value of Units. Increases and decreases in the value of the Fund's assets will be magnified when the Fund uses leverage. For example, leverage may cause greater swings in the Fund's Net Asset Value or cause the Fund to lose more than it has invested. The use of leverage creates an opportunity for increased returns, but at the same time involves a higher degree of risk and may increase the exposure of the Fund and its investments to factors such as rising costs of leverage and downturns in the economy. Moreover, the assets of the Fund may be pledged to a lender for the sole benefit of the Fund and such lender may claim the assets upon an event of default (as specified in the financing documents) by the SPV, the Fund Manager or the Fund.

Risks of Actions Taken by Competitors: The Fund competes with other owners, operators and developers of real estate in Saudi Arabia, some of which may own properties similar to Fund's properties in the same submarkets. If the Fund's competitors lease commercial and/or residential space similar to the Fund's properties or sell assets similar to the Fund's properties at valuations below the Fund's valuations for comparable assets, the Fund may be unable to lease its commercial and residential space at favorable pricing, on favorable terms or at all. As a result, the Fund may incur additional costs and expenses for the purposes of maintaining the properties and also be exposed to loss of potential income due to underlying properties being vacant. As such, the projected income and/or returns to Unitholders may be adversely affected.

Risks of Certain Dispositions: In connection with the disposition of Investments, the Fund may be required to make declarations about the business and financial affairs of the Investment typical of those made in connection with the sale of any real estate property, and may be required to indemnify the purchasers of the Investments to the extent that any such declarations are inaccurate. These arrangements may result in contingent liabilities, which might reduce the returns to Unitholders or ultimately have to be funded by the Fund. In addition, the governing documents of the Fund provide that the Fund will indemnify the Fund Manager, its affiliates, including their officers, directors, partners, employees, shareholders, members and other agents, for certain claims, losses, damage and expenses arising out of their activities on behalf of the Fund. Such indemnification obligations could materially impact the returns to investors.

Risks of Inability to Exit from the Fund's Investments on Advantageous Terms: The Fund will divest itself of its properties and other assets when the Fund Manager believes it is the appropriate time to sell. The Fund's ability to dispose of properties on advantageous terms depends on factors beyond its control, including competition from other sellers and potentially the availability of attractive financing for potential buyers. If the Fund is unable to dispose of its assets on favorable terms or on time, then its financial condition, results of operations, cash flow and ability to distribute dividends to the Unitholders could be adversely affected.

Risks of the Lessee's Inability to fulfill Lease Obligations: The Fund's results would be adversely affected if a significant number of the Fund's tenants were unable to meet their lease obligations. If a tenant seeks the protection of bankruptcy, insolvency or similar laws, such tenant's lease may be terminated in the process and result in a reduction of cash flow to the Fund. In the event of a significant number of lease defaults and/or tenant bankruptcies, the Fund's cash flow and ability to make distributions to the Unitholders would be adversely affected.

Risks of Possible Inability to Renew Leases or Re-lease Spaces as Leases Expire: The Fund will derive most of its income from rent received from the tenants of the properties. Accordingly, the Fund's financial condition, results of operations, cash flow and its ability to distribute dividends to Unitholders could be adversely affected if it is unable to promptly re-lease properties or renew expiring leases, or if the rental rates upon renewal or re-lease are significantly lower than expected. Upon the expiry of any lease, there can be no assurance that the lease will be renewed or the tenant replaced. The terms of any subsequent lease may be less favorable to the Fund than the existing lease. In the event of default by a tenant, the lessor may experience delays or limitations in enforcing rights and incur substantial costs in protecting the Funds investment. Further, the Fund's ability to lease space and the rents that it can charge are impacted, not only by tenant demand, but also by the number of other properties it has to compete with to appeal to tenants.

Enforceability of FRI Leases: The properties within the Initial Assets have been leased under lease agreements broadly equivalent to what is known as an "FRI" (full repair and insurance) lease whereby the lessee generally assumes all of the maintenance costs, as well as the services and insurance and the obligation to pay taxes and fees directly attributable to the relevant property.

Although the contracts have been approved by the Fund's Shariah Board, that does not provide a guarantee that the competent courts in the Kingdom will hold that the provisions of the leases and other related contracts are compliant with Shariah, and are therefore enforceable in the Kingdom as drafted, particularly the provisions transferring to the lessee the liability to carry out construction repairs and the obligation to pay taxes and fees in relation to the Initial Assets. In case the competent courts deem that this arrangement is not Shariah compliant, then the expenses payable by the Fund may increase significantly, and that may have a substantial negative impact on the business of the Fund and its financial position and may reduce the yield distributions to the Unitholders and cause the value of the Units to fall.

Hospitality Market Risk: The performance of the Fund will be heavily influenced by factors which affect the hospitality market generally. These may include demand-side factors such as any economic downturn, any outbreak of disease, epidemics, quarantine restrictions, public health restrictions, any government regulation including the imposition of fees and/or taxes, disruption to local, national or international transport services, restriction or prohibition or any other similar case, or supply-side factors such as an oversupply of hotels, either generally or in a particular segment such as hotels in a particular location of Makkah or Medina or in a particular class. The hospitality industry is cyclical. Macroeconomic and other factors may have a negative impact on the business and personal discretionary spending, leading to low occupancy levels and room rates and affecting the overall value of the real estate property. Consequently, the Fund may need to exit the acquired assets below the acquisition cost, thereby resulting in a capital loss and may be unable to achieve the expected returns.

Seasonality and Other Risks of the Hospitality Industry in the Holy Cities: The seasonality of the hospitality industry in the Holy Cities could have a material adverse effect on the Initial Assets and any properties acquired in the future that are engaged in the hospitality sector. The hospitality industry is seasonal in nature, with the highest levels of occupancies generally achieved during Hajj and Umra. This seasonality can be expected to cause periodic fluctuations in room revenues, occupancy levels, room rates and operating expenses. The Fund can provide no assurances that cash flows will be sufficient to offset any shortfalls that occur as a result of these fluctuations. Consequently, volatility in financial performance resulting from the seasonality of the hospitality industry could have a material adverse effect on the Fund's financial condition, cash flows and results of operation and, accordingly, cash dividends and the value of Units. Further, while the Kingdom and the Saudi Commission for Tourism & National Heritage (currently Ministry of Tourism) are presently putting much efforts in encouraging tourism, a negative change in the issuance of business, Umra and Hajj visas could affect the tourism market in the Kingdom including the investments of the Fund.

Risk of Uninsured Losses: The Fund will carry commercial liability, property and other types of insurance covering all the property that it owns and manages in types and amounts that it believes are adequate and appropriate given the relative risks applicable to the property, the cost of coverage and industry practice. Certain losses, such as those due to windstorms, floods or seismic activity, may be insured subject to certain limitations, including large deductibles or co-payments and policy limits in addition to delay in collecting the claims. The Fund may incur material losses in excess of insurance proceeds and may not be able to continue to obtain insurance at commercially reasonable rates. If the Fund experiences a loss that is uninsured or that exceeds its insured limits with respect to one or more of the properties, then it could lose the capital invested in the damaged properties, as well as the anticipated future revenue from those properties. Any such losses could adversely affect its financial condition, results of operations, cash flow and ability to make distributions to the investors.

Property Valuation Risks: In addition to the valuations carried out by two independent valuers licensed by Saudi Authority for Accredited Valuers, the Fund Manager may use internal valuations in several contexts in relation to the Fund. The valuations performed by the Fund Manager or the independent valuers will only be an estimate of the worthiness of a property and are not a precise measure of the value that may be obtained in connection with a sale of that property which is based on negotiations between a buyer and seller. The final verification of the property market value depends to a great extent on economic and other conditions beyond the control of the Fund. If the Fund were to liquidate its assets, the realized value may be more or less than the estimated valuation of such assets. In periods of economic volatility, in which there is a perceived greater uncertainty as to value estimates and fewer comparable transactions against which value can be measured, the difference between the estimated value for a real estate asset and the ultimate value for that asset may increase. Further, relative uncertainty as to cash flows in a distressed market can adversely affect the reliability of property value estimates and the negotiations between a buyer and seller and hence final returns to Unitholders.

Risks of Investing in Murabaha Funds, Listed Equity and Other Real Estate Funds: The Fund may invest in SAR Murabaha transactions with local Saudi banks or in Shariah-compliant listed equity of real estate companies or other Shariah-compliant real estate investment funds. The value of these types of investments may fall as they are not deposits in a bank. In addition, there are risks associated with Murabaha transactions arising from trading activities involving dealings in illiquid financial instruments, whose clearance and payments do not fall under a regulated clearing house or stock exchange, which may negatively affect cash distributions and the market value of Units.

Impact of Government Policies on the Saudi Real Estate Market: The government has recently implemented a tax on the white lands. The tax, known as the “white land tax”, provides an incentive to other developers to develop undeveloped plots of land but may result in increased competition in the real estate market. Any future reduction of subsidies on electricity and water, changes in the expat levy, taxes on expat remittances and the introduction of any new levies on expats and their dependents may reduce disposable income and may reduce demand for the Fund’s properties. Further, any cap on rent increases by the Saudi government will have an adverse impact on the revenues of properties and, accordingly, cash distributions and the market value of the Fund’s Units .

Other Risk Factors

Legal Status Risk: The Fund is a contractual arrangement between the Unitholders and the Fund Manager. Such contractual arrangement is governed and supervised by the CMA. The Fund does not have its own legal personality as such and the fund may not be upheld by a Saudi government agency or a Saudi court due to the uncertainty of the Fund's legal entity which may result in losses directly reflected on the market price of the Fund's Units.

Legal, Tax and Regulatory Risks: The information in these Terms and Conditions is based on existing published legislation. Legal, tax, zakat and regulatory change in the investment environment in the Kingdom, or otherwise, may occur during the Fund Term which could have an adverse effect on the Fund or the Investments. The Fund may have limited legal recourse in the event of a dispute, and remedies might have to be pursued in the courts of the Kingdom. Enforcement of leases and other contracts through the judicial system in the Kingdom is a difficult and lengthy process, and outcomes are unpredictable. Additionally, governmental departments and agencies in the Kingdom, such as the Notary Public, exercise a great deal of discretion with regards to the application of existing legislation. Any changes to existing legislation or failure by governmental departments to apply such legislation may adversely affect the Fund. While investors in CMA-regulated funds in the Kingdom are not currently taxed, the local tax authorities maintain the rights to assess zakat tax on each Unitholder.

Risks of Value-Added Tax: It is known that the value-added tax (VAT) was introduced in the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia on January 1, 2018 as a new tax to be added to the taxation and fees system applicable to specific sectors in the Kingdom. According to the General Authority of Zakat & Tax, whenever any of the cases related to VAT apply to any of the Fund assets and investments, such shall have an impact thereon. Since the imposition of VAT in the Kingdom implies several significant obstacles, in addition to this type of taxes is considered, in nature, complicated and its implementation includes detailed procedures and instructions, whether at the governmental levels or the taxable entities, such entities shall be required to be fully aware of and duly understand the nature and method of implementation of such tax type, how to calculate it, and how to submit ad hoc reports to the competent governmental authorities as prescribed by relevant laws and regulations. As is the case with other laws and regulations, any violation of any of the obligations set under the VAT-related laws and regulations, shall lead to a financial fine and other legal penalties, which may adversely affect the Fund and its investments. In addition, on May 11, 2020G, the General Authority of Zakat & Tax issued a resolution raising VAT from 5% to 15% as of July 1, 2020G.

Force Majeure & Emergencies: The Fund value and investment may be negatively affected by the developments accompanying any Force Majeure events or emergencies and the related actions which are beyond the reasonable control of the Fund and/or Fund Manager. Force Majeure includes, without limitation, acts of God, diseases and epidemics, government decisions and orders related to precautionary and protective measures, earthquakes, riots, terror acts, floods, wars, fires, etc.

Risks of Government and Municipality Approvals: The Fund may fail to achieve its investment objective in case any applicable municipal approval or consent is denied or not granted on acceptable or reasonable terms. In such case, the Fund may not be able to complete an investment or may not be able to complete the development of a real estate project which may negatively affect the value of Units as expected proceeds of development will not be earned on time.

Saudization Risk: The Saudi Arabian government may require the employment of a high percentage of citizens of the Kingdom in various sectors, including the development of the Kingdom's real estate sector (Saudization). It is unclear at this point to what extent the Fund and its investments will be required to implement Saudization policies. Saudization may require the hiring of additional employees or the provision of additional training, which would entail additional costs and higher operating costs, which would be deducted from the Fund's net income and hence reduce the net profits of the project or the real estate development investment and negatively affect the profits of Unitholders.

Risks of Third Party Litigation: Given the nature of its activities, the Fund may become involved in legal proceedings with third parties. In such case, the expense of defending against claims by third parties and any amounts pursuant to settlements or judgments shall be incurred by the Fund, which would reduce the Fund's assets and cash available for distribution to Unitholders. The Fund Manager and others are entitled to indemnification by the Fund in connection with such litigation, subject to certain limitations.

Risks of Liability and Indemnification Limitation: These Terms and Conditions limit the circumstances under which the Fund Manager, and their respective affiliates, including their officers, directors, partners, employees, shareholders, members and advisors, can be held liable to the Fund. As a result, investors may have a more limited right of action in certain cases than they would have in the absence of such a limitation. In addition, the Terms and Conditions provide that the Fund will indemnify the Fund Manager and its affiliates for certain claims, losses, damages and expenses arising out of their activities on behalf of the Fund. Such indemnification obligations could negatively impact the returns to Investors.

Sovereign and Political Risks: The value of the Fund and its investments may be negatively affected by political or diplomatic developments, social instability, changes in government policies and other political and economic developments.

In-kind Dividends: Subject to compliance with regulatory requirements, the Fund may distribute in-kind dividends of real estate or interest in other companies in the context of winding up the Fund. In the event of distribution of in-kind dividends, Unitholders may receive interests in a company or property that is difficult to be realized. The distribution of in-kind dividends in the form of assets may create costs and administrative burdens which investors would not have incurred if the Fund distributed cash dividends.

Forward-Looking Statements: These Terms and Conditions may contain forward-looking statements relating to future events or the future performance of the Fund. In some cases, forward-looking statements can be identified by terminology such as “anticipate,” “believe,” “continue,” “estimate,” “expect,” “intend,” “may,” “plans,” “projects,” “should,” “will,” the negative of such terms or other comparable terminology. These statements are only predictions. Actual events or results may differ materially. In evaluating these statements, investors should specifically consider various factors, including the risks outlined in this Paragraph (G). These factors may cause actual events or results to differ materially from any forward-looking statement. The Fund Manager is under no duty to update any of the forward-looking statements after the date of these Terms and Conditions to conform such statements to actual results or to changes in expectations.

The foregoing does not purport to be a complete or exhaustive explanation and summary of all the risk factors involved in an investment in Fund Units. It is strongly recommended that all potential investors seek independent advice from their own professional advisors.

- 2) An investment in the Fund does not entail any guarantee that such investment shall be profitable or that an investor shall not incur any loss. As such, each prospective investor shall take into account each of the aforementioned risk factors prior to purchasing units in the Fund. Investors shall solely bear full responsibility for any financial loss resulting from an investment in the Fund unless such loss is due to a fraud, gross negligence, or willful misconduct of the Fund Manager, in accordance with the Real Estate Investment Funds Regulations.

A member of the Fund Manager Board is a shareholder in a founding company of Al Bilad Bank (at a percentage not representing control). For further clarification, the appointed Custodian is a shareholder of the Fund Manager at a percentage not representing control.

Conflicts of interest may exist or arise from time to time between the Fund, on the one hand and, the Fund Manager or its affiliates, subsidiaries, directors, officers, employees and agents thereof, and other funds sponsored or managed by them. Where the Fund Manager has a material conflict of interest with the Fund, the Fund Manager will make a full disclosure to the Fund Board as soon as practicable. Jadwa Investment Company manages, and is expected to continue to manage, its own proprietary account and other investments with objectives similar in any way to those of the Fund, including other investment funds which may be managed or sponsored by Jadwa Investment Company or in which Jadwa Investment Company or its affiliates may have an interest in their capital.

In addition, subject to the limitations set forth herein, Jadwa Investment Company and its affiliates may in the future sponsor other funds or investments, or serve as fund manager, investment manager or general partner with respect to private investment funds or other collective investments, one or more of which may invest in vehicles similar to those in the Fund's investments, provided that such other activity does not impair the success of the Fund.

2) Conflicts of Interest Regarding Transactions with the Fund Manager and its Affiliates

The Fund may engage in transactions with the Fund Manager or its affiliates or other entities in which Jadwa Investment Company has a direct or indirect interest. For example, certain affiliates of Jadwa Investment Company may provide services to the Fund such as administrative services. All transactions between the Fund and the Fund Manager, its affiliates and entities in which Jadwa Investment Company holds a direct or indirect interest will be disclosed by the Fund Manager to the Fund Board.

However, the Fund Manager and Fund Board shall use their good faith commercially reasonable efforts to cause the terms of the agreements between the Fund Manager and its affiliates, on the one hand, and the Fund, on the other hand, to be prepared on an arm's-length basis and be in line with market standard terms.

3) Fund Board

The Fund Board will oversee the resolution of conflicts of interests. As of the date of these Terms and Conditions, the Fund Board is composed of appointees of the Fund Manager. 4) Related Party Transactions

The Fund may from time to time enter into transactions with Related Parties and affiliates to provide services to the Fund. Such transactions must be disclosed to the Fund Board and shall be on market standard terms. In case a Related Party or an affiliate, including another fund established by the Fund Manager, wishes to enter into a transaction with the Fund or the Fund Manager, it shall first obtain the approval of the Fund Board. If an asset is bought from or sold to a Related Party or an affiliate by the Fund, the purchase price paid or received by the Fund must be consistent with independent valuations.
